

A Message from Phil Harper, General Manager Deaf Sports Australia 2022 Australian Deaf Games is definitely ON.

Now that vaccinations numbers have significantly increased across Australia, recent NSW government advice roadmap for opening up shows that from December 1st 2021, major events such as the 2022 ADG in Newcastle and Lake Macquarie has no limit to the number of attendees. Please refer to the attached NSW roadmap which provides details of this plan.

DSA and the 2022 ADG GOC encourage you and your teams to follow Australian Government's health advice that to protect yourself, your family and community from getting sick and recommend you get vaccinated.

There will still be rules in place that require double vaccination (or medical exemption) to enjoy participation and getting around. Check with your State / Territory rules about travel and border restrictions updates.

We are required to have a COVID-safety plan for the Games and that may include evidence of vaccination. Further details on how this will work to come later – NSW rules are likely to be updated in 2022.

We all look forward to seeing you in Newcastle and Lake Macquarie for the 2022 ADG to finally catch up again and enjoy our sport, social and cultural experience.
